What is Civitan?

Civitan International has a mission to build good citizenship by providing a volunteer organization of clubs dedicated to serving individual and community needs. Organized in 1917, Civitan now has 40,000 members throughout North America, Europe, Asia and Africa. When you become a part of Campus Civitan, you join a global organization of people helping people.

Community Effort

The Civitan International Research Center at the University of Alabama at Birmingham brings together top scientific minds to create innovative therapies and treatments for people with developmental disabilities. The Civitan Research Center provides services for a global clientele of individuals with special needs.

A Brighter Tomorrow

CAMPUS CIVITAN

Campus Civitan

Campus Civitans are college students who desire to grow and improve themselves while making a positive contribution to their communities and fellow human beings. Membership requirements vary among clubs. Please contact your local club for detailed membership information.

Enhancing Personal Development

Membership in a local Campus Civitan club is beneficial to the community and you! As a member of Campus Civitan you will be able to develop leadership and public speaking abilities, learn managerial and organizational skills, and discover the importance of teamwork and networking. Campus Civitan clubs participate in a variety of activities and events each year. There are numerous opportunities for you to become a club officer, organize community service projects, be a member of a project team, lead team meetings or speak to other groups about Campus Civitan and its benefits to the community.

Club meetings also include speakers on topics of interest to club members, such as: How to Make Public Presentations, Financial Management for College Students, and relevant campus or community issues.

All work? No. Fulfilling? Yes!

Social activities are a big part of Civitan clubs — theme parties, dances, lakeside cookouts and sporting events are just a few examples.

What About Career Opportunities?

Are you constantly asking yourself: 'What is life like after graduation?' Do you have a career in mind but don't know how to go about obtaining it? Campus Civitan can help!

Each Campus club has a sponsoring community-based Civitan club. Members of your sponsoring club usually represent an array of career fields. These Civitans can help guide you through your chosen career path.

Community Service Is Our Middle Name

Civitan's major emphasis is helping people with mental retardation and other developmental disabilities. However, each club decides which groups and individuals it assists, both locally and internationally. Some clubs sponsor blood drives, voter registration drives, programs to collect food for needy families, visits to children in hospitals, and many other projects which help those in need to build a better, stronger community.

Campus Civitan Is Where I Want To Be!

Contact your local Campus Civitan club president listed below to find out about the next meeting. If no club president is listed or there is not a club on your campus, contact:
